OUR COTTON WEEKLY review at the ose of last week showed the price of mid-ling cotton in New York at that time to be dling collon in New York at that time to be 15%; on Saturday it was again 15%c, athough it had been down to 15%c in the course of the week. New Orienns was 15%c, a quotation it still retained on Saturday; but during four days of the week the figure was down to 15%c. Liverpool quoted 7%d, a quotation that remained unchanged the week through. In Memphis we quoted 15% a 15%c, and such was the quotation again on Saturday, but for three days it was down so 15% 25%c. It will be seen the quotation again on Saturday, but for three days it was down so 154154c. It will be seen from these figures that quotations on Saturday were unchanged from those of a week before, but had been lower in the American markets between the two Saturdays. In all this receipts were the determining influence. Receipts down, prices un-receipts up, prices down. Such is the history of the week. It is unnecessary for us to dwell on the subject of receipts, as we have made their hearing fully known in our last three weekly reviews, and receipts, as we have made their hearing fully known in our last three weekly reviews, and we have only to remark that expectations of diminished arrivals have proved true since the middle of the week, but not in a proportion as shorp and decisive as had been looked for by holders. There is a decline, however, and since it havshowed likely cotton has assumed more strength. The following table of comparative receipts will enable the render to understand the situation: to understand the situation:

We see by this table that the receipt the last We see by this table that the receipt the last week was $2250 bales more than during the corresponding week a year ago, and the total receipt 282,441 bales more. It is observable, however, tout the receipt in the corresponding week in 1830-71 was 12,030 bales more than the receipts of the past week. On comparing former weeks during those two years, as given in our table, it will be seen that this falling behind is a significant fact, and one calculated to help the views of those who believe the crop has come in unusually early this year, and will now sharply decrease. The week before us cannot fail to set this question—so momentous in its effects on prices—afrest. It is due to this decrease that quotations, the last two days of the week, recovered what rest. It is due to this decrease that quotations, the last two days of the week, recovered what they had lost sance the week opened. There were persons and even newspapers that began to roll up their total crop estimate to (£25,000 bales, but if the failing off of the past two or three days continues—a, from the time of the season, is likely—we shall probably hear no more from these prophets. Each telegram, as it arrives, is now scrutinized with the utmost carnesiness. The price of cotton for the remainder of this season is in the ballances, the weights are the receipts, and these appear to mainder of this season is in the ballances, the weights are the receipts, and these appear to be now at their turning crisis. The course of our market during the week was as follows:

Mownart—Plennian receipts gave a dull tone to telegrams, and the inquiry was only moderate; sales 800 bales, of which spinners took 45; middling, 154c. Tursoay—A slight failing off in receipts gave some confidence to the market, but while sales were more free the market, but while sales were more free e price was less favorable to sellers; 1800 of which spinners took 1200; of which spinners took 1200; of look 1200; of which spinners and dispatches threw new confidence of our market, as they reported a selpt for the day of only 2451 bales, an accentinguity, which extended to lower qualities of good staple, spring up, 2700 ales changed hands, of which spinners look 1600; middling 15315/20. MIDAY.—New Orieans advanced 1/20, and liverpool was steadler; our market showed a liverpool was steadler; our market showed a liverpool was steadler; our market showed a good demand, with improvement in quotations. Sales of 290 bales, of which spinners took 1500; middling 151/815/2c, an advance. Satunday, tecepts still failing off added new strength to the market, and New York and New Orleans quoted higher. There was a good inquiry and good staple and low and medium qualities were freely taken. Sale 2500 bales, of which spluners took 1400; middling 151/415/2c. Yesterday, Monday, cotton was higher; New York quoted 56, and New Orleans 16c, against 151/2c at both places last week; Liverpool 77/2d, against 72/2d last week. New York closed easy for spot; futures steady. New Orleans at noon was firm and active, with sales at 1/2 above the quotations; in the afternoon the movement was checked by the high prices asked; sales amounted to 200 th prices asked; sales amounted to 200 es. money among business people of small means, deposits are increasing and money accumulates at the centres. The distribution is therefore, unequal, but the evil is one that will correct itself, for capitalists find it as necessary to employ their money as business men do to obtain the means of moving produce and manufactures. There is no disposition to put money into speculative ventures, therefore we have nothing to report of stocks or bonds. Some Tennessee State bonds, with coupons of 189 were offering with little chance of finding a buyer in this market. Some city bonds, excoupens, were also seeking a purchaser; 18 was asked. Exchange was in fair supply; in some banks there was abundance; rates remain unchanced at 34 discount on New York; 34 on Bosion, Providence, and other eastern cities for demand, 35 for sight; 34 off for New Orieans. Gold was in limited supply and demand at 110 gill 194; large lots, would bring higher.

THE GENKRAL MARKET has been quiet during the week, except bulk pork, which has been very active. Corn also has been in good demand, while other articles of feed have received little attention. Corn has not as firm a basis as was expected; at the opening of the year 30c; $1 a bashel was predicted for it by February, but 75c is about as good as it can bring, with no confidence even at that price. Cals are quiet; mixed will bring about 50c; seed oats are in good demand for small lots. Bran is very quiet at $16 in bulk and $15; $18 to in sacks. Hay is quiet and steady. Cornmeal is scarce, as the miliers, having no confidence in the price of corn, will not grind more than "from hand to month;" the consequence has been a bare market and prices running up as high as $2 65. Fotatoes are demoralized; an attempt was made to bolster them up by a ring, but it failed, and there is some shipping back to $5t. Louis. Cabbages are steady, with a decreasing demand. Onions are quiet and easier. Egra have made a poor figure all the week, but at the close 20c could be got for fresh arrivals. and Ruffled Subjects:

OF MEMPHIS

Sam Williamson's dog had a fight Sunday morning, and was so hadly chanced that he was unabled to tow the big wharhoat to Cairo.... Alderman Davis, at tue last meeting of the city council, made a motion that wharhoats be charged the same wharfage as steamboats, which was carried. His action was prompted by a desire to have the big concern removed from our landing. But as an act of consistency it would be a good step on his part to move that engine shanty on the landing and the stables from the bluff, all the property of himself, and ordered to be carried away last July or August.... The flatboat of A. Lamar, from Grand View, Indiana, loaded with hay, corn, potatoes and cabbage, came into the lower landing.... The St. Louis Democrat of Sunday has the following: "Mr. Geo. H. Reader, a well-known St. Louis steamboat cierk, has devised a system of taking copies of cash books, ledgers, manifests, bills, and other written and printed matter, that will probably come into general was in a short time. Being unable to find any Privates, we have pronounce our grand army of MIRTH invul day packets got so little that it is hardly worth mentioning, none among them, save the coast boats, being otherwise than lightly freighted. There must certainly be a change soon in river offerings, or our best steamboat stock will go to the wall. It is a hard necessity to be running boats in this losing way, but there is no help for it just now, since the freight is actually not here to go. Perhaps country supplies may be set in motion after a while, affording something for our half ruined boatmen to come out even at the end of The Mystic Crew, Memphi,
